Building material is piling up at our school site in Murombedzi, signalling our determination to soldier on with our mission even under dire economic circumstances.

We remain grateful to all those coming through with donations of every size and quantity.

Rest assured, you are making an impact on the future of many children from needy families.

THE FUTURE HAS ALREADY ARRIVED!

Amazingly, we already have three-year-olds enrolled at Tamiranashe. The future is already here!

FROM THE FOUNDER'S DESK

At Tamiranashe Trust, we believe in the importance of replicating impact, because a good by one can only have far reaching positives if repeated by many.

For example, a skilled soccer player among our pupils is encouraged to impart those skills to others, so that many reap the rewards. Above that, the school team becomes stronger too.

As an organisation, we believe that in order to earn the accolade of having done well, our programs must impact the wider society and community we operate in. Our intervention on the education front is meant to mould a responsible adult out of each of our pupils, and also a community in which that adult flourishes positively.

Personally, I believe that is one sure way of guaranteeing positive life changes in my community.

TAURAI: A BOY OF STEEL

Before impact, comes determination.

And determination comes out of circumstances of great disadvantage.

Taurai, one of our Grade 7 pupils, is a case to ponder on.

Like many of his schoolmates, he comes from a family of severe economic status. To make matters worse, he is the family breadwinner!

Yes, at only ....., his family looks up to him for the next meal.

And at that tender age, he has shown his entrepreneurial spirit by starting a venture where he collects scrap metal for resale.

There is usually a lot of negativity with similar cases, with child welfare laws cited left, right and centre.

Yet Taurai's entrepreneurial inclination could be harnessed and supported so that he does not do the work, but benefits, with his family, from a venture he owns.

BEEFING UP AT THE USA EMBASSY

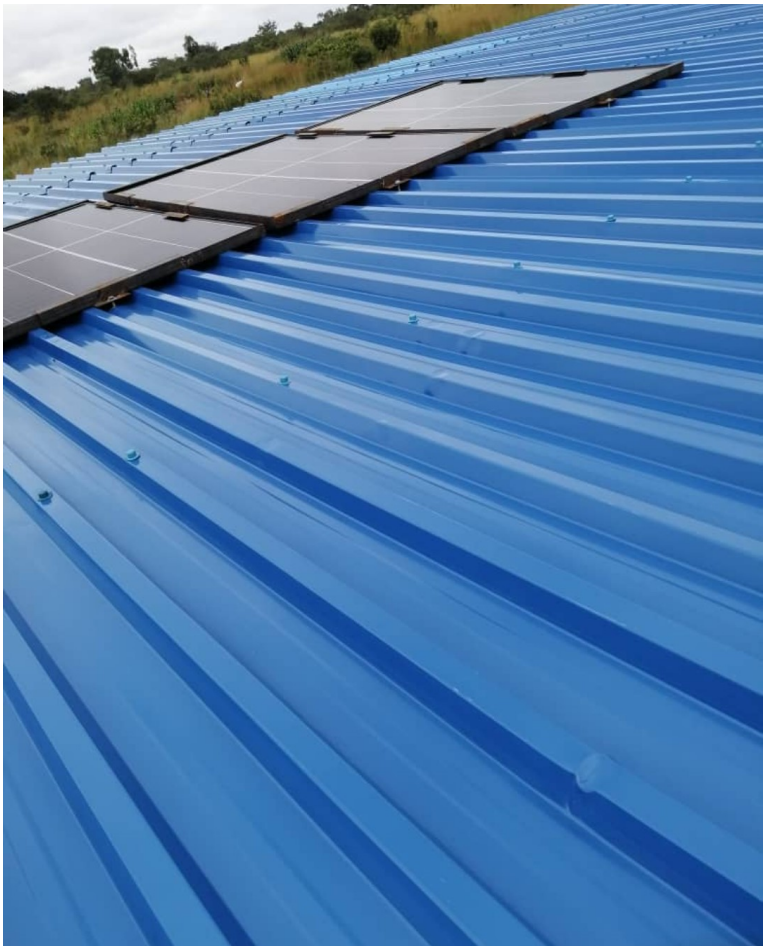
We are forever indebted to our change driver, Nancy Mbaura, whose continued quest for knowledge will benefit us in the long run.

Since obtaining a Diploma in Entrepreneurship and Skills Development (Bharat Sevac Samaj College, India) and a Diploma in Leadership and Social Change (Kanthari Institute, India), she has not rested in her pursuit for capacitation.

Recently, she attended a masterclass on entrepreneurship at the local Embassy of the United States of America (USA).

The occasion was also graced by the Permanent Secretary in the Ministry of Women's Affairs, Community, Small and Medium Enterprises Development, Dr Mavis Sibanda.

MT. CARMEL "SOLARED"



We are grateful for the recent donations of solar panels from Prophetess Sainet and Prophetess Chapanduka recently.

The panels have already been installed and now provide sustainable energy at our Mt Carmel School in Murombedzi.
