FROM THE FOUNDER'S DESK

As the old adage says, you reap what you sow.

When I started this journey, my aim was to play a role, no matter how small, in nurturing children so that they grow up to realise their dreams.

I was motivated by a belief that everyone has one. That is, we all have dreams: what we wish to be in future.

Without a doubt, education is the key driver towards the fulfilment of such ambitions. Hence it being placed at the core of the programs of Tamiranashe Trust.

Yet, not everyone is an academic!

Education, in this context, ceases to be just about literacy and numeracy. It becomes holistic in nature, accommodating and nurturing every dream.

Just as we plant trees and nurture them till they grow, we are committed to helping children grow into their dreams— Mbaura

I believe by guiding these children in an all-inclusive type of syllabus, we are planting trees which will one day give us shelter, food and many other necessities of life.

I intend to plant as many of these trees as possible, and in this newsletter, we highlight some of the recent activities which went some way in nurturing dreams.

GOOD MORNING, ZIMBABWE...

The excitement was palpable among all the “tourists” during our tour of the NationalFM broadcasting centre in Harare.

One of Zimbabwe’s biggest radio stations, NationalFM has a huge listenership too, endearing itself to many as the only one broadcasting in all Zimbabwe’s official languages.

The tour was timed to commemorate the International Children’s Day of Broadcasting, itself a spur for those who have dreams of one day becoming famous radio voices.

In addition to getting a feel of studio equipment and programming, our pupils got to see in person, for the first-time ever, some of Zimbabwe’s most famous radio presenters.

We know this inspired many of our children, and planted at least one tree which will one day be a famous radio voice.

READY TO CONQUER!.....BUT...

Meet our newly-kitted girls soccer team!

We recognise that among our pupils are some who are talented in many other extra-curricular activities.

And in Zimbabwe, playing professional soccer figures prominently in every such child's ambitions.

As Tamiranashe Trust, we are here to support them in every way we can, including provision of proper equipment and coaching.

We will forever be grateful to the partner who donated this kit.

As you can see from these pictures, more still needs to be done. Soccer is not for the bare-footed, more so on the makeshift pitches we use here.

Our girls still need soccer boots.

Feel free to contact us and partner in making a difference to at least one future professional soccer player.
